

CULTURAL RESOURCES LAW

Consulting with Tribes on Energy Projects

October 2-3, 2017 • Mystic Lake Casino Hotel • Prior Lake, MN

Dear Colleague:

We have once again assembled a faculty of nationally renowned experts to lead you through the complex legal, business and policy issues in energy development, and Tribal consultation.

Join your fellow professionals from around the country, and hear perspectives from Tribal governments, federal and state governments, industry professionals, and consultants, and learn new creative and collaborative approaches to problem-solving.

- An Introduction to Cultural Resource Protection Under Federal and Tribal Law
- Presidential Change 2017-Implications for Cultural Resources Compliance and Tribal Consultation
- Communicating Across Worldviews: Skills for Conducting More Effective Consultations
- Effective NAGPRA Compliance Strategies
- Kinder Morgan's Strategy for Successful Tribal Consultation
- Effective Engagement with Tribes
- Strategies to Expedite Tribal Consultation and Reduce Project Risks
- Native Culture Wars: The National Museum of the American Indian
- Cultural Resources: Traditional Indigenous Thinking of Sovereignty
- Outreach for FERC Regulated Projects
- Tribal Consultation and the US Army Corps of Engineers
- World Intellectual Property Organization Protection of Traditional Cultural Expressions of Indigenous People
- The Ethics of Dealing with Indian Tribes and Tribal Enterprises
- When Culture Preservation and Water Rights Collide

This Conference is specifically designed to provide you with the most up-to-the-minute information from all points of view, and you will leave with course materials that you will refer back to, time and time again.

Please register early, space is limited.

We look forward to seeing you at the Mystic Lake!

Sincerely,

Jon Berkin

PROGRAM CO-CHAIRS

Jon Berkin is a Partner in the Minneapolis office of ERM, a leading environmental consulting firm for the energy industry. He specializes in managing the routing, siting, and environmental permitting for large scale energy infrastructure projects and the design and implementation of public outreach processes. Dr. Berkin has over 25 years of environmental permitting experience for energy projects throughout the lower 48 states and Alaska, including numerous energy projects on Tribal lands. He has extensive experience working with American Indian Tribes and is a frequent presenter on the topics of regulatory compliance, dispute resolution, and consultation issues at industry conferences.

Troy A. Eid co-chairs the American Indian Law Practice Group for Greenberg Traurig and lives in Denver. He represents traditional and renewable energy projects on federal public lands and elsewhere, advising project proponents – including companies, utilities, and energy producing tribes – and litigates federal cultural resource, historic preservation, and environmental issues. A former United States Attorney for the District of Colorado, he chaired the National Indian Law and Order Commission, advising the President and Congress, from 2010-14. An expert in Native American tribal law, he serves on the Navajo Nation’s Judicial Conduct Commission.
